

In this article the author, continuing with the series of theological reflections on The Lord's Prayer, comments on the phrase "Your Kingdom Come." To the author, the foundation of this coming kingdom lies in the belief in God as the Lord of life. This kingdom can be rightly understood as an existential panorama of God's lordship, neither other-worldly nor this-worldly, but at once existential and eschatological. The kingdom of God, in the author's final analysis, is the unyielding striving for true freedom.

吐露要活現為一個「讓上帝成為上帝」的人之心聲後，主耶穌繼續地指導我們祈求，要我們以具體的目標表明對上帝之尊崇的意望：「願你的國降臨」。
